Regents approve tuition, fee rates for 2012-13

The South Dakota Board of enrollment growth, service to Regents Thursday approved tuition and mandatory fees for the upcoming academic year. The impact to students within the public university system is an average cost increase of $463.97 per year, or 6.5 percent.

students, and delivering the highest quality education possible," said Regents President Kathryn Johnson. For the first time in 15 years, the board adopted differential tuition rates for the three research universities within the system: South Dakota State University, The University of institutions will pay tuition of $129.90 per credit hour, while the rate for students attending Black Hills State University, Dakota State University, and Northern State University will be charged at $124.20 per credit hour. On average, an in-state undergraduate student taking 30 credit hours next year will pay $7,563.67 for tuition and the two fees paid by all bachelor-degree programs from 128 to 120 Johnson also noted there will now be an average savings of $500 per year, or $2,000 in total savings, for students on a four-year degree path. "We believe this is a very positive step to help students graduate earlier and with less debt," she said.

"We sought to keep this cost to students as low as possible, while still addressing

Technology. This will allow those universities to generate and retain more tuition income in support of their broader research mission, as well as better align actual costs with the tuition charged.

Resident undergraduate students at the research students-the University Support Fee and the General Activity Fee. These new rates are effective for the 2012-13 academic year that begins this summer.

As a result of board action last fall to decrease the number of credits required for most

Sanford Health expands air-ambulance fleet

Sanford Health has purchased two King Air 200 airplanes that are based in Fargo, ND, and will serve patients across thousands of miles in the Midwest. Previously, Sanford's team in Fargo leased one airplane from a local company.

The airplanes serve every kind of patient, from the smallest of babies to the most critically injured adults. Each airplane is able to transport two patients, two medical teams (up to five flight nurses and paramedics) and two pilots. The aircrafts can travel approximately 310 mph and are able to transport patients anywhere in the continental U.S. and areas of Canada. The planes are outfitted with the latest emergency transport features and also have autopilot, which is like having an additional pilot in the aircraft.

The cost of each plane was $2.2 million and includes everything from painting to outfitting with specialized medical equipment. Sanford's transition to owning the planes (instead of leasing) is a more costeffective practice in the industry and will save resources over time.
