Kosovo and Hungary. Most recently, he lectured in South Korea about advanced leadership skills for fire service chief officers.

His most recent experience with a career fire department was in Missouri.

Draper replaces Fire Chief Doug Brunick, who retired in June after more than 30 years of service. To find a replacement for him, the city embarked upon a national search for a new chief, reviewing applications and conducting a series of phone and in-person interviews, eventually narrowing the pool down to three applicants.

Draper will begin his duties in Vermillion late this month.

friends and Scout leaders," he

8.The harder you work towards a goal, amazingly, the luckier you get. Gilbertson noted that he is struck by the accomplishments of some of USD's best-known graduates, ranging from Neuharth and Robbie, to Ernest Lawrence, Tom Brokaw, and Joe Foss. "Every one of these individuals gives credit to USD as one of the primary foundations for their success," he said.

7. Always treat others the way you want to be treated, or suffer the consequences.

6. Life is not always fair. "In fact, if I can give you a guarantee today, it will be that life is not fair," Gilbertson said.

5. Learn to appreciate and care for the finest things in life, which are often free. "A friend of mine is fond of saving, as we both look at a sunset going down over a lake we both love, 'God's not making any more shoreline these days.' What we have, we have to protect, and we have to take care of it," he said. 4. As Dorothy told Toto in the Wizard of Oz, "Toto, there's no place like home." Gilbertson said USD can be justly proud of it 150 years of training leaders for the state, nation and world. "Graduates, I would ask you to consider staying in South Dakota. I did, and I've never regretted it," he said.

3. Strive to achieve a balance in your life. "While work is important, take time to smell the roses and enjoy life. Family should come first. No one, on his or her deathbed, was ever heard to say they wished they had spent more time at the office," Gilbertson said.

2. Learn the skill of listening. Listen instead of talk. "I don't know of anyone who ever got into trouble by listening," he said, "but I know a lot of people who got into trouble by not listening or by talking.'

1. "When I was in high school, and had assured myself that I had learned everything I needed to know for life to be a howling success, I came out the door one day, and here was my mother on her hands and knees, planting flowers," Gilbertson said. "I looked at her said, 'Why are you doing this? This is a parsonage; we don't own it; we will never own it. Why don't you go inside where it's cool?'

Gilbertson said her mother replied, "I've never owned a home, and I may never own a home, but every place I've lived, I've always tried to leave it a little nicer than I found it. Graduates, may we take a clue from this. Wherever you wind up, may you leave it a little nicer than you found it."
