in Slagle Hall for many years, except for last year, when the ceremony was moved to the Dome because of renovations that are still ongoing at Slagle, and the school board usually meets twice a month in USD's Neuharth Center.

"We didn't want to start counting each and every instance that someone used a facility," Van Den Hul said. "We wanted to arrive at a general agreement, and then just be good neighbors at how we use these facilities and not have to track each and every hour."

A DakotaDome cooperative use advisory committee, made up of representatives from the Vermillion community, the school district, and USD, held five meetings beginning in early November. The final committee meeting was held Dec. 15.

The group's mission was to explore the options available to the community for continued use of the DakotaDome facility. Options explored by the committee included:

- Option A - This option would recognize the combined efforts of USD, VSD and the City of Vermillion for a total commitment of $8,027,115 which represents the estimated cost of improvements to the DakotaDome over the next 10 years. With this option the contributions would be: City of Vermillion one-sixth or $89,190, Vermillion School District one-sixth or $89,190 and USD two-thirds or $356,761 annually for 15 years with annual adjustments indexed to an inflation factor.

- Option B - This is a flat rate proposal of $50,000 per year for 15 years. Cumulative cost over 15 years is $750,000.

- Option C - This proposal of $55,000 per year-one is increased by 6 percent annually for 15 years. Cumulative cost over 15 years is $1,280,173.34.

- Option D - This financial model suggested the Vermillion School District purchase the "turf" in return for the facility use. The estimated cost of the turf (2009) is $900,000. Using $900,000 for 15 years at 5 percent interest the estimated annual payment would be $85,406.50. The cumulative cost over 15 years is $1,281,086.02.

- Option E - The proposal is an option to allow each organization to provide their individual facility.

- Option F - This proposal encouraged a formal mediation process by hiring an outside service.

Van Den Hul, who as of Tuesday said he has not yet seen a solid financial proposal from the Vermillion School District, said he was optimistic that the goal of a community partnership involving the university, the city and Vermillion schools will ultimately be reached.

"I've told them (school officials), from the very beginning, that I will work with them," he said. "Once we can at least make an agreement on the amount and principle, I'll work with them. I understand there are cash flow issues, but we just need to come to an agreement on principle on what really is a fair amount."

"We put some information out there, so I'm waiting to see where they're willing to go, and that will be part of conversations on Friday," Van Den Hul said.

The Vermillion School District attempted to negotiate an annual payment based on what the university receives for hosting the yearly South Dakota high school football championships.

"For those six games, the South Dakota High School Activities Association pays $27,500 to use the Dome, so we felt that was a fairly viable basis for an agreement for us to pay four or five games in the Dome," Girard said. "We also threw out an option of going up to as much as $50,000 per year as a payment to use the Dome, with an agreement that we would have to have more than just the varsity football games there - we would have to also play JV games there, and maybe have a couple track events there and get a little more use out of the Dome if we were going to be paying more."

Girard told the school board Jan. 11 that university officials were not "extremely receptive" to most of those ideas. "They were really quite stuck on the $88,000 payment, or they felt if a capital investment was going to be made, it really kind of needed to be upwards of about $2 million (between the school district and the city) to use the facility."

She noted that, just as the university based its figures on estimates of needed upgrades to the DakotaDome; the school district also discussed the needs for improvement to its facilities that are commonly used by the USD.

"That was ultimately not chosen to be used," Girard said. "...We can build our own facility for $750,000, but we would be playing outside."

"We try to take a broader view," Van Den Hul told the Plain Talk Tuesday, "and get a general agreement so that after that we can be good neighbors and not do a strict accounting of each and every hour that somebody may use a facility... and if we have a facility available, we'll allow them to use it."

He added that it is now up to the officials from the university, the city and the school district to get together and further discuss the recommendation calling for an initial investment of between $1 million and $2 million by the city and school district to use the Dome and help pay for improvements to the structure.

Discussion of that topic likely will take place at a scheduled meeting of officials from those three entities scheduled for today (Jan. 29).

Van Den Hul, who as of Tuesday said he has not yet seen a solid financial proposal from the Vermillion School District, said he was optimistic that the goal of a community partnership involving the university, the city and Vermillion schools will ultimately be reached.

"I've told them (school officials), from the very beginning, that I will work with them," he said. "Once we can at least make an agreement on the amount and principle, I'll work with them. I understand there are cash flow issues, but we just need to come to an agreement on principle on what really is a fair amount."

"We put some information out there, so I'm waiting to see where they're willing to go, and that will be part of conversations on Friday," Van Den Hul said.

Dr. Thomas Langworthy

Dr. Thomas Allan Langworthy

Dr. Thomas Allan Langworthy, 66, passed away at his home in Sioux Falls on Jan. 20, 2010. He was born Aug. 7, 1943 in Oak Park, IL to Thomas and Jean (Hruby) Langworthy.

He earned an A.B. degree in biology from Grinnell College, Grinnell IA and a PhD in microbiology from the University of Kansas, Lawrence KS.

Dr. Langworthy's career included 38 years as a professor of microbiology at University of South Dakota School of Medicine in Vermillion, a director of microbiology courses at the Sanford School of Medicine and Fellow of the American Academy of Microbiology. He was well known as an outstanding teacher and researcher. An internationally known expert in bacterial physiology, he authored over 150 scientific articles and several book chapters. As a recipient of the prestigious Alexander von Humboldt award in 1984, he spent that year as a guest professor at the University of Regensburg, Germany.

For 16 years Tom along with many friends enjoyed his hobby of fishing tackle collecting (NFLCC).

He is survived by his wife, Jane (Heckenlively) Langworthy of Sioux Falls; and his two daughters, Jennifer (Nate) Grindheim and granddaughter, Annabel and grandson Benjamin of Shoreview, MN, Joslyn (George) Langworthy Klaas and twin granddaughters, Elsa and Freya, of Toledo, OH. Also two stepsons, Jeffrey (Stacey) Moser and granddaughter, Macie, of Rapid City, and Jon (Allison) Moser of Meckling, and grandchildren Brooke, Conner, Drake, and Elyse.

Toward the end of his life, Tom was comforted to learn the Bible's hope of a resurrection. (John 5:28 & 29)

Memorials can be sent to Compassionate Care Hospice.

A memorial service will be held at 4 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 30 at the Hansen Funeral Home in Vermillion, SD. For online obituary and condolences please visit hansenfuneralhome.com.
