HIPE Week Feb. 4-8

Promoting health careers to South Dakota students is the focus of the upcoming Healthcare in Partnership with Education (HIPE) Week Feb. 4-8.

As South Dakota's population continues to age, projections indicate the state will need thousands of additional healthcare workers, with rural areas particularly affected. HIPE Week is an annual observance bringing together schools, communities and healthcare providers in an effort to make today's students aware of the many healthcare careers that are available to them.

Local groups interested in participating in HIPE Week can find free resources, including lesson plans and activities on the web at www.healthcareers.sd.gov. More information about South Dakota Workforce Initiatives can be found at <http://www.southdakotawins.com/>.

'Change for Change' benefits local pantry

The Downtown Vermillion Action Team (DVAT) presented an $800 check to Mary Berglin of the Vermillion Food Pantry. The money was raised during the DVAT's annual "Change For Change" project.

Customers were encouraged to donate their change at 26 Downtown Vermillion businesses during the month of December. First Dakota National Bank, Pets Paw and Fox Trot Books chose to match the money they collected and Murphy's Appliance added a generous donation to the cause.

The Vermillion Food Pantry has been serving the community for 29 years. In 2012, 4603 people were fed by the community. 80 volunteers presently work at the Food Pantry.

The DVAT would like to thank the Vermillion area community for its generosity and support of the "Change For Change" Project.
