McKeen able to mix studies with work at I.D. Weeks Library

By Travis Gulbrandson travis.gulbrandson@plaintalk.net

Two years ago, USD student Emily McKeen was looking for a job that would be engaging, yet relatively stress-free.

She said working at the campus' I.D. Weeks Library has more than fit that description.

"It's a simple enough job to where I can still go to school and be able to work," she said. "They're really good at working with our schedules, so we can take classes and it doesn't interfere too much.

"(It's not) just a nine to five shift. You can work for a few hours and come back," she said.

This is especially welcome for McKeen, a third-year student with a psychology/nursing major and a minor in philosophy.

Although she is a big reader – science fiction in particular – McKeen had never worked at a library before, but she said it didn't take too long to get comfortable with her responsibilities.

"I make sure that the books are in order, shelve the books, help people look for books, check them out, check out the rooms, make sure that everything is neat," she said. "There are some (processes) to learning the order of the books, where they belong, and we have a couple different manuals that tell us where to go. ...

"I think it's just one of those things where you have to do it to learn it," she said.

McKeen said that although the job is relaxed on the whole, there are some heavy-traffic points each semester, near finals and mid-terms especially.

"You can tell when certain classes have projects due, because people come in the Sunday before it's due, or especially during finals things get a lot busier, and we start having a lot more books dropped off right at the end of the semester," she said.

During those busy times, McKeen said she has been met with some perplexing requests.

"There are definitely questions that are stranger than others, where people are students, but they still think they can't use the computers without permission.

"But there hasn't been anything too terribly strange – for me at least. Yet." McKeen recommends other students take advantage of the employment opportunity.

"You can find people to work for you easily enough, and you can get the hours you need," she said. "If you don't know something you can just ask. "It's not overly stressful, but it's not boring," she said. Half-joking, she said there is another reason she likes her job so well. "I'm not working at McDonald's."

Midsommar at Dalesburg features accomplished Swedish trio

Three of Sweden's most accomplished musicians headline the annual Midsommar at Dalesburg celebration on Friday, June 22. Trio Con Brio of Stockholm will entertain for both the afternoon and evening programs.

The traditional Swedish celebration in rural Clay County features a scrumptious smorgasbord, the classical Swedish trio, a sing-along with Mike Pedersen of Nora, barbershop singers and more at Dalesburg Lutheran Church. Everyone is valkommen!

Trio Con Brio masters classical music, hymns and jazz with a variety of instruments and vocals. The trio headlines the 2 p.m. program in the airconditioned church and the 7 p.m. program on the beautiful north lawn. The musicians - Carina Cederwall, flute and vocal; Jan Holmgren, oboe, English horn and vocal; and Stig Andersson, piano, arrangements and vocal are all educated at the Royal Academy of Music in Stockholm. They have appeared at festivals and in concert in Europe and across the United States. Mike Pedersen is known throughout the region for the joyous Christmas singalongs he presents annually at the Nora Store in rural Union County. For Midsommar, he will lead a lively summertime singalong for the 7 p.m. evening program. The All-Nighters, an area barbershop group, also will perform for the evening program. In addition, the flower-strewn Midsommar Pole will be raised and everyone will be asked to help close the program by learning and joining in traditional Scandinavian dances. One of the festival

One of the festival highlights is the tasty homemade Smorgasbord from 4:30-6:30 p.m. featuring ethnic specialties like meatballs, potatis korv, fruit soup and more. Cost is $12 for adults and $8 for ages 8 and younger. Dalesburg Lutheran is 12 miles north of Vermillion on the University Road; or 5.5 miles west of I-29 exit 38 (Volin); or 9 miles south of Hwy 46 on University Road or 3 miles east of Hwy 19 on 306th St. (Volin Road).

ROP

The festival is the 143rd celebration at the church and is a joint effort of three traditionally Swedish rural churches in the area – Dalesburg Lutheran, Dalesburg Baptist and Komstad Covenant.

The day at the beautiful church grounds is all about family, friends and faith. The celebration begins at 1 p.m. when the Food Stand, operated by Dalesburg Lutheran and Komstad youth, opens, with a variety of snacks and homemade pie. The afternoon and evening include the 2 p.m. program, the smorgasbord, children's activities beginning at 5pm and the evening program at 7 p.m. Throughout the afternoon, area organizations and craftspeople will be on hand and visitors can look over the Viking ship from Wausa, NE. At the end of the evening, an impromptu softball game is possible at the Ben Carlson Field across the road (weather permitting).

R

The festival dates back into the late 1860s, when settlers from Dalarna County of Sweden came to Dakota Territory, to the area that is now Southeastern South Dakota. These pioneer families started a Midsommar celebration tradition, based on the festival in Sweden.

Dalesburg Lutheran, Dalesburg Baptist and Komstad Covenant will end this year's celebration on Sunday, June 24, with a community worship service at Dalesburg Lutheran featuring the Community Choir under the direction of John Fahlberg.

Dalesburg Lutheran Church is a traditionally Swedish church founded by Dakota Territory homesteaders who emigrated from Sweden in the 1860s. The first building was erected in 1874. The present sanctuary dates from 1897. The ELCA church features impressive woodwork, stunning stained glass windows, and, of course, Midsommar - all in a beautiful countryside setting.

Phone 605-670-9703 46633 Missouri St., Burbank, SD 57010 email: jeff.mount63@gmail.com

C

AERIAL SPRAYING

· Herbicide · Fungicide

Insecticide · Pasture Spraying

Cover Crop Seeding

SURPLUS PROPERTY

The University of South Dakota will sell miscellaneous surplus items including bicycles, tables, chairs, desks, lawn & garden items & misc. items.

Tuesday, June 26th

9:00a.m.-4:00p.m.

at the Quonset building located north of the DakotaDome on Hwy 50, next to the Vucurevich Day Care Center Any questions call: 605-677-5669 Terms of Sale: Cash Only