that's how we can show people that."

Redhead Creamery and their partnership dairy offer something unique to the modern dairy model.

"We are farmstead which makes us unique, we are using our own milk," Sjoström said. "We are making a natural rind aged cheddar."

The dairy milks roughly 180 cows at any given time, and the milk is used on site. Currently the creamery is only using a fraction of the milk they produce, with the rest going to their local co-operative. The cows are well feed and cared for to make sure they produce quality milk. Cheese making is an in depth process that requires knowledge on how to let the product naturally age.

"The cheese is totally unique to our farm because we are using the molds that are found naturally here on our farm," Sjoström said. "We are also making the fresh cheese curds, which is something different for people who are used to dried curds, because we want them to eat them fresh." Sjoström hopes to find the perfect balance between quality product and offering variety to the consumer.

"We also have a Brie now, we are still developing a soft cheese that is washed in whiskey that I'm hoping I'll be able to release this fall," Sjoström said. "Really we focus on the fact that we are a farmstead cheese company, there are not any other artisan cheddars made in Minnesota. We hope to really only make four to five cheeses and have them be really good."

State Level Conservation Innovation Grants Available

NATURAL RESOURCES CONSERVATION SERVICE, Huron, SD, June 1, 2015 — The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) announces the availability of $150,000 for state level Conservation Innovation Grants (CIG). Applications must be received by July 17, 2015.

South Dakota NRCS is seeking proposals for the state level CIG program that targets soil quality and pollinator habitat. $150,000 has been set aside for this state level program, with a maximum grant award of $75,000 per project.

The state CIG Announcement for Program Funding (APF) is available on the Grants.gov website at <http://www.grants.gov> and on the SD NRCS Web site at <http://www.nrcs.usda.gov/wps/portal/nrcs/main/sd/programs/financial/cig/>. Proposals are requested from eligible government or nongovernment organizations and entities for competitive consideration of grant awards for projects between one and three years in duration.

The CIG is a voluntary program intended to stimulate the development and adoption of innovative conservation approaches and technologies while leveraging Federal investment in environmental enhancement and protection, in conjunction with agricultural production. Under CIG, Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) funds are used to award competitive grants to non-Federal governments or non-governmental organizations, Tribes, or individuals.

The CIG projects facilitate NRCS' work with other public and private entities to accelerate technology transfer and adoption of promising technologies and approaches to address some of the Nation's most pressing natural resource concerns. CIG projects will benefit agricultural producers by providing more options for environmental enhancement and compliance with Federal, State, and local regulations.

For more information about CIG, contact your local NRCS office or Jay Cobb at 605-352-1260.
