

USD exhibit gives a glimpse of Janklow's life

South Dakota's longest-serving governor is being remembered in an exhibit that will be on display through April 16.

"Remembering Governor Janklow" is located in the exhibition cases on the second and third floors of the I.D. Weeks Library on the USD campus, and uses documents and mementos to offer insights into who he was as a politician and a person.

"We tried to select items that conveyed some information about Gov. Janklow that is not as well-known, as well as shedding more of an impression of what he was like as a person, as opposed to a governor," said Joe De La Rosa, first-year law student and curator of the exhibit.

The cases are arranged on a thematic basis, covering aspects of Janklow's life and career from such perspectives as economic development, his military service and law practice.

The exhibit came about in October 2011, when Janklow met with USD officials and indicated he wanted to place his papers at the university archive.

His gubernatorial papers were transferred from Pierre last March, and papers from his law office are still being transferred, said Dan Daily, Dean of Libraries.

The Janklow collection contained more than 600 boxes overall.

"Archivists tend to think in numbers of boxes and numbers of linear shelf feet that a collection occupies, so I think it's 375 boxes from the gubernatorial papers, probably 100-plus boxes of personal papers," Daily said. "As you see in the exhibit, there are things beyond the letters, reports and documents."

De La Rosa said his favorite items fall into this latter category.

The first is an article from Forbes magazine which talks about South Dakota and Janklow's efforts to put the state on the map.

"It has a Mount Rushmore type illustration, and so what I feel that conveys is how South Dakota, which was once only known for Mount Rushmore, now has a more interesting history to it, particularly in the financial sector through everything Gov. Janklow did," De La Rosa said.

His favorite item is a bit more personal.

"One of the most interesting items we didn't end up displaying because it was not in really great condition," De La Rosa said. "I am struggling to figure out how we can make it a little more accessible, but it's Gov. Janklow's old graduation certificate from the sixth grade in Chicago. That was kind of a transitional point, where he's moved back to South Dakota after that time, and his mother enrolled him in the Flandreau school system."

Among other items on display are business cards, inaugural event pieces, photographs and clothes, including one of Janklow's trademark windbreakers.

"The exhibit is kind of heavy on the memorabilia to give a picture of who Janklow was as a person," Daily said.

Janklow was born in 1939 and died in January 2012. He served as governor from 1979-1987, and from 1995-2003.

He went on to become a member of the U.S. House of Representatives, a position he left after his involvement in a fatal traffic collision near Trent.

Janklow was known for his larger-than-life persona, which sometimes caused trouble when he made controversial statements.

De La Rosa said he hopes the exhibit will help visitors to see beyond that persona.

"That's definitely something we hope will come out of this process, that people who haven't made their mind up about Gov. Janklow will ... understand that he was a much more complicated person than (they) realized."

Boyd sets record, Coyotes win 2

University of South Dakota softball won its first two contests at the Rebel Spring Games, defeating Detroit Mercy 5-4 and La Salle 12-3 (5 inn.). Lindsey Boyd stole two bases against La Salle, giving her 70 for her career and setting a new South Dakota stolen bases record in the process.

USD used a nine run fourth inning to discard the Explorers early. The 'Yotes sent 14 batters to the plate in the inning and collected four walks, four singles and seven RBIs. Boyd walked and scored twice in the inning while Kate Snow's single with the bases loaded netted two RBIs.

The Coyotes also scored runs in the first and third innings. Boyd led off the game with a single and the record-tying steal and later scored on an Allie Daly double to right center field. Morgan Hancock's third inning double to center field scored Matley Jones and Christine Broders and tied the score at 3-3.

Missy Blackburn earned her second victory of the season, pitching all five innings and striking out three batters. Hancock, Snow and Jones all had two hits in the game while Boyd scored three runs.

Against Detroit Mercy, South Dakota entered the bottom of the sixth trailing 4-3. Kassie Loe opened the frame with a double to right field, advanced to third on Broders' single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Hancock. After a Boyd walk and a fielder's choice, Minogue came to the plate with runners on first and second and knocked a single to center field to deliver the game-winning RBI.

The Coyotes additional runs came in the second and fifth innings. With two outs and Loe on first, Broders' belted her fourth home run of the season to give USD a 2-0 lead. After the Titans scored three runs in the top of the fifth, Katie Dinning and Minogue strung together back-to-back singles in the bottom of the fifth inning Daly doubled down the left field line, scoring Dinning and tying the game.

Erica Denney pitched the complete game against Detroit Mercy, improving her record to 5-3 on the year. Denney struck out five batters and allowed two earned runs on five hits and three walks.

Minogue went 3 for 4 at the plate with one RBI, while Broders and Loe each had two hits for the game.
