No Longer an 'Eagle's' Nest,
 VTC Takes Flight

This building, located at 1012 Princeton Street in Vermillion, was originally set to be the home of Eagle Creek Software Services Inc. Alas, things changed and it is now known as the Vermillion Technology Center.

ALAN DALE / THE PLAIN TALK

By Alan Dale
 The Plain Talk

What has been called the Vermillion Technology Center (VTC) since the last mortar was laid and last brick placed, is about to become something if not soar like an eagle.

Originally designed to fit the needs to the software company - Eagle Creek Software Services - the VTC, which is built and owned by the Vermillion Area Chamber & Development Company (VCDC), appears to be moving forward toward being a used facility sooner than later.

According to Nate Welch, executive director of the VCDC, the building, located at 1012 Princeton Street, should have a future if all goes as planned as a lawsuit between his organization and Eagle Creek remains ongoing.

"The Vermillion Technology Center was designed to meet the specific needs of Eagle Creek, but like other office spaces, can be used for similar commercial office purposes and can be outfitted to meet the needs of other potential tenants," Welch said. "It is a beautiful office building with great amenities and we look forward to utilizing it as a prize tool to help the economic development in Vermillion."

The change in direction was precipitated when Eagle Creek did not move in to the facility as contracted between the company and the VCDC. This led to the VCDC filing a lawsuit last fall aiming to recoup $153,640.45 in past rent and other expenses, excluding August rent for the property, which the Eagle Creek did pay according to the county paperwork.

"There's always a natural bitter sweet feeling when you have to stop and pivot to a plan," Welch said. "This building was built with a specific purpose, but just because that plan may have unfortunately changed, this building still provides great opportunity for growth, development and strong businesses to come to Vermillion."

Welch could not comment on if this officially signifies the end of a relationship between the VCDC and Eagle Creek due to the nature of the ongoing lawsuit.

The building has rooms named in recognition of the Vermillion area.

Welch says that they have the, Lewis Wing, the Clark Wing, the Coyote Conference Room and the Missouri Commons room.

"The VTC was finished on time, under budget and is complete," Welch said. "It's move in ready. Bring a desk, a chair and you're ready to get in it. We're going to make sure and let people know that, too."

The VTC played host to its first major event on Tuesday when the VCDC held its annual banquet.

Governor Dennis Daugaard spoke at the banquet which 240 people attended.

Sioux Emperians to Perform for Senior Companion Program

The Sioux Emperians will perform at a benefit concert for the Senior Companion Program on Sunday, April 12. The Sioux Emperians have been bringing the sounds of barbershop harmony a capella singing to the Sioux Falls area for over half a century! As part of the largest male a capella singing organization in the world, the Sioux Emperians practice a uniquely American art form distinguished by tight vocal harmonies and unaccompanied singing.

Entertainment is sponsored by Miller Funeral Home. Financial support will be provided by Thrivent Financial for Lutherans. Benefit sponsors are Midco Connections and Midcontinent Communications.

The benefit concert will be at 2 p.m., Sunday, April 12, in the Jerstad Center on The Evangelical Lutheran Good Samaritan National Campus, 4800 West 57th Street, in Sioux Falls.

All benefits will go to support the Senior Companion Program, a non-profit organization that matches senior volunteers with seniors who need help. Senior Companions provide assistance with daily activities, transportation and friendship with a goal of helping their clients remain independent in their own homes for as long as possible.

The cost for the concert is $5 for adults, $4 for seniors, and $2 for children ages 4-12. Children 3 and under are free. Refreshments and a raffle drawing featuring a handmade quilt will also be part of the afternoon. Concert tickets are available at the door.
