The Red Cross has deployed more than 1,300 disaster workers to the region from all over the country to help those affected by the storm. Red Cross Volunteers from across South Dakota have stepped forward to assist when they are called to help. As many as 160 emergency vehicles are ready to respond when it is safe to do so, and more than 230,000 ready-to-eat meals have been sent into the area.

"Sandy is a large and dangerous storm, and will affect large parts of the eastern part of the country for the next few days, said Charley Shimanski, senior vice president of Disaster Services for the Red Cross. "We urge people to remain in a safe place until it passes, and to listen to instructions from local officials."
