Registration And Details For USD Center For Disabilities Symposium

SIOUX FALLS - Registration is open to the upcoming Center for Disabilities Symposium in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, for anyone interested in programs and services that cover the life course of a person with a disability.

The event, April 18-19 at the Sheraton Hotel & Convention Center, was developed for direct service providers, advocates, families of people with disabilities, educators, employment specialists, community support specialists, case managers, counselors and anyone else interested in such programs and services.

Keynote speakers for this year's symposium, entitled "Connecting the Dots: Engaging People, Resources and Community," are Ari Ne'eman, Autistic Self Advocacy Network president, and Mindy Scheir, Runway of Dreams founder, an organization developing adaptive versions of existing apparel.

"Every year, we add new elements to the symposium, and this year's symposium offers many new things in addition to some of the old favorites, like the World Café community conversations," said Wendy Parent-Johnson, executive director of the Center for Disabilities, part of the USD Sanford School of Medicine. "Overall, there's surely something to please everyone."

Professional, early bird, group, student, individual with a disability and family member rates are available on the registration site.

South Dakota Soil Health Coalition First Annual Meeting Set for Nov. 30, 2015 in Pierre

The first Annual Meeting of the new South Dakota Soil Health Coalition (SDSHC) is set for Monday, November 30, 2015 at 4:30 p.m. in Amphitheatre 2 in the Ramkota Hotel and Convention Center, Pierre, SD. No pre-registration is required for this public event. Membership forms will be available at the door.

Supported by many organizations and entities, the new farmer/rancher-led coalition is focusing on bettering the health of South Dakota soils. This first Annual Meeting will include reports on events and projects of the first few months of the Coalition being organized, as well as, previews of upcoming activities. "Through improved soil health, benefits can be seen for production agriculture, but more importantly, there are benefits for society as a whole," says Doug Sieck, Chair, SD Soil Health Coalition, Selby, SD. "Regardless of your occupation, we all have a stake in keeping our resources healthy and productive. We invite everyone to attend, learn, and offer their suggestions for the future for improving the health of our precious soils."

By design, the SDSHC event is scheduled in conjunction with the South Dakota Ag Horizons Conference and the South Dakota Association of Conservation Districts Convention (SDACD) all being held at the Ramkota in Pierre. For Ag Horizons and SDACD event information, visit the "events tab" at www.sdconservation.org. For information about the new Soil Health Coalition, visit www.sdssoilhealth.org or email: sdssoilhealth@gmail.com.

Huron, Spearfish, And Vermillion To Host Pacesetter South Dakota Youth Basketball Playoffs Leading To Target Center

The Pacesetter South Dakota Youth Basketball State Playoffs, which lead to the Pacesetter Great Four-State Championships at the Target Center in Minneapolis, have been set for Spearfish (West Region) March 12-13, Vermillion (East Region) March 5-6 and Huron (State) April 9-10.

The top two teams from each region playoff in grades 4-9 for both boys and girls advance to the South Dakota state championship. The top two teams from the South Dakota state championship then advance to play in Minneapolis at the Target Center against top teams from Minnesota, North Dakota and Iowa in a one-day, 8-team tournament.

The Pacesetter Playoffs are sponsored by the WNBA champion Minnesota Lynx and Minnesota Timberwolves and coordinated by Pacesetter Basketball. Further information and registration are available at www.pacesetternet.com. Photos from last year's tournaments are available on the Pacesetter Basketball Facebook page.
