

Lervick wins SDSU golf tourney

University of South Dakota freshman golfer Brenna Lervick made a 12-foot birdie putt on her 18th hole of the day to force a playoff, and beat North Dakota State's Sarah Storandt on the first playoff hole to win South Dakota State's Jackrabbit Fall Invitational Tuesday.

It was the first victory by a Coyote since Amber Luitjens tied for first place at the Cobber Invitational back in September of 2007.

The 54-hole event took place Monday and Tuesday at Minnehaha Country Club and featured 48 golfers from eight teams. The Coyotes placed sixth in the team race at +129. South Dakota State won the event at +98.

Lervick entered Tuesday's final round at 10-over-par and with a three-stroke lead over South Dakota State's Sydney Macdonald. Storandt started four strokes back in third place.

Lervick bogeyed four of her first six holes including a double bogey on 14, her second hole of the day. She settled down to par five of her next six and was tied with Storandt at +19 with three holes to play.

"My nerves got the best of me early and I wasn't quite as sharp as I was yesterday," said Lervick. "Coach (Jon) Vining started talking to me and asked me to stop and breathe at one point and that got me back into it."

Macdonald shot 10-over-par Tuesday and finished in fifth place. Storandt, who started her day on hole 10, parred her final three holes to finish at 19-over.

Lervick, who didn't know she was in a tie for the lead until there were three holes left, bogeyed the par 3 10th hole to slip to +20. Her birdie on 12 was her first of the round and one of four birdies on the hole all day. "I knew I wasn't playing well and was down in the dumps when Coach told me I was tied for the lead," said Lervick. "I knew I probably needed to birdie the last one to have a chance."

Lervick hit the fairway on the par 5 12th hole, laid up to 100 yards away and hit a gap wedge to 12 feet. She gave a little fist pump after sinking the downhill putt.

"Brenna doesn't get overly excited on the golf course, so I told her she should do something, first pump, whenever she makes a birdie putt of 10-feet or more," said USD head coach Nick Hovden. "That was her first fist pump."

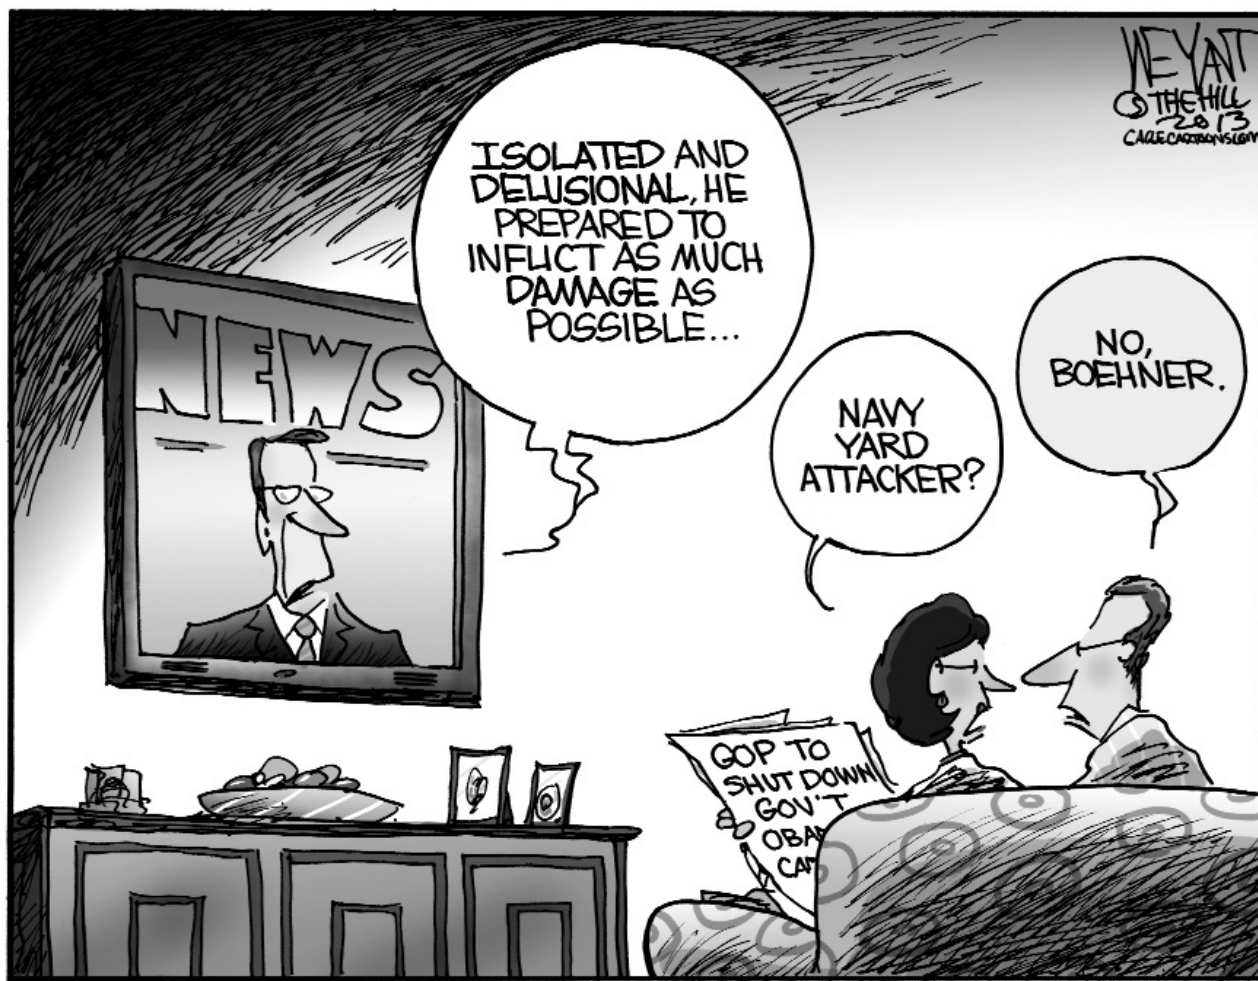

Lervick and Storandt then paired up for the first time all tournament and replayed the 18th hole, a 360-yard par 4 that ranked as the fifth-toughest of the tournament. Storandt's tee shot was mishit, dribbled into a little creek in front of the tee box and wasn't playable.

She was forced to re-tee. Lervick hit the fairway, reached the green from there and two putted for the win.

"It wasn't a super exciting final hole," said Lervick. "I was back to a nine or 10 on the nervous scale while standing on the tee box, but I hit a good tee shot after Sarah's mishit and that put me in good position."

USD junior Janice Baumberger shot the Coyotes' low round of the day Tuesday at 7-over-par and finished the tournament in 20th place at +33. Sophomore Alyna Vaughan matched Lervick's opening round 77 (+6) and finished in 15th place at +30.

The Coyotes next compete Oct. 5-7 at a tournament hosted by Xavier in Daytona Beach, FL.

Ira Glass to speak in SD

Ira Glass, the mesmerizing host of public radio's "This American Life," is coming to South Dakota for a special appearance next spring.

"Reinventing Radio: An Evening with Ira Glass" is Saturday, April 5, at the Washington Pavilion in Sioux Falls. The evening includes a 60-minute presentation and a 30-minute Q&A session. The event is sponsored by the Friends of South Dakota Public Broadcasting.

Donors to Friends of SDPB will have the first chance to participate, by responding to on-air offers during the SDPB Radio Membership Week, Oct. 12-19. Tickets will go on sale to the public on Nov. 9.

Glass, who has been called the best radio host in America by Time Magazine, is the creative mind behind "This American Life." The program, produced by Chicago Public Media and distributed by Public Radio International, airs on more than 500 public radio stations across the country, reaching 1.8 listeners. Glass has earned a prestigious Edward R. Murrow Award and the program also has earned the Peabody, the duPont-Columbia and the Overseas Press Club awards.

Glass started working in public radio in 1978, when he was 19, as an intern at NPR's headquarters in DC. Over the next 17 years, he worked on nearly every NPR news show and did nearly every production job: tape-cutter, desk assistant, newscast writer, editor, producer, reporter and substitute host. He moved to Chicago in 1989 and put "This American Life" on the air in 1995.

IRA GLASS

"This American Life" has no set format. Each one-hour show revolves around a theme and digs into the lives of all kinds of Americans.

This is how "This American Life" describes itself:

"We view the show as an experiment. We try things. There was the show where we taped for 24 hours in an all-night restaurant. And the show where we put a band together from musicians' classified ads. And the show where we followed a group of swing voters for months, recording their reactions to everything that happened in the campaign, right up through their final decision. And the show where we had a story for each of the Ten Commandments. Or the one where our producers all collected stories for a weekend at the same rest stop. We also occasionally do our own versions of stories that are in the news, including award winning economics coverage that spawned another entire program called Planet Money."

Whatever the topic, the program is always fascinating and unexpected.

Listeners can tune in on SDPB Radio on Saturdays at noon and Sundays at 5p.m.
